Value Added Program

French

Date: 26/04/2021-28/05/2021

Target Audience: VI SEM BCA A & B

Trainer: Ms. Yogini

Faculty Coordinator: Ms. Syamili Mohandas

Time: 1.30-3.30PM

Venue: Online

There is a major demand for human resources with foreign language speaking and writing skills. Speaking French gives access to the corporate world across the globe thereby providing greater opportunities for job engagements. French is considered as one of the easiest languages for a native English speaker to learn. There's no doubt that speaking more than one language, especially French, is an enormous advantage in the Indian employment market as well as the Canadian employment market. Considering that it's the official language of 29 countries and multiple other important regions, it's an advantage in the international job market as well.

REPORT ON COMMUNICATIVE ENGLISH CLASSES 2020-2021

The communicative English classes are in place to help students improve their capacity to communicate effectively. The emphasis is on analyzing and evaluating receptive and productive skills using a variety of task-based exercises. It also emphasizes on the development of students' language and communication abilities, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills through the comprehension of the four pillars of the English language, namely listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

These classes enable the students to distinguish clearly between speaking and writing abilities.

Listening Skills: - Listening is a receptive language skill that most students struggle with. This is frequently due to a sense of undue pressure to comprehend every word. The listener must become accustomed to listening. It is also necessary for the listener to be attentive. Anticipation is a skill that can be developed by listening.

Speaking: - Language is a tool for communication. So, it is critical to study many components of the language. Accurate pronunciations, phonics, scenario-based voice modulation and other factors in speaking skills are among them.

Writing Skills: - Writing gives a student tangible evidence of his accomplishments and allows him to track his progress. It reinforces their understanding of vocabulary and structure while also complementing their other linguistic abilities. It aids in the comprehension of the material as well as the composition. It can help learners improve their capacity to summarize and freely use the language. To create immaculate language, one must master writing skills through a variety of approaches. Composition and creative writing should be prioritized. When it comes to developing a language, one should also consider coherence. We assist them in identifying and using critical thinking abilities in writing during these sessions.

Reading: - The ability to decode meaning from a text is known as reading ability. Phonetics, word recognition, vocabulary, decoding, and fluency are among the talents. To be a proficient reader, one must have these essential talents for recognizing insights or meaning.

The Communicative English classes are conducted to the students who are not very proficient in speaking and writing skills. These Students are identified by the English teachers who are handling English classes for the first year students.
