About the session / Event:

The event "Cloaks and Chaos" was organized by the students of III B.Com 'B' with the objective of combining entertainment, teamwork, and strategic thinking. The session began with the inauguration ceremony, where the dignitaries Ms. Kampa Belliappa, Ms. Pallavi N, Ms. Devaki, Ms. Sunitha, and other faculty members were warmly welcomed. To make the inauguration engaging, the dignitaries participated in a brief round of the game Red Light, Green Light. The ceremony concluded with the presentation of a token of appreciation to the guests.

Following the inauguration, the hosts Anushka, Gautam, and Hrithik Srinivas conducted a short interactive filler session during which a few light-hearted riddles were asked to the audience. Eight students who successfully answered received small gifts. After this short break, the hosts explained the rules and regulations of the first game, and the competition officially began.

A total of 61 participants took part in the event and were divided into two groups equally. Each participant was assigned a badge with a player number. The winners from the first level, i.e., Chat and Chance, advanced to the next stages, which included the games Red Light, Green Light, Papadgona, Stone Hustle, and Poisoned Potluck. In the final round of Papadgona, members of the organizing team also participated to make the session more engaging. The event concluded with the Poisoned Potluck game, which had two thrilling rounds where players had to identify the "poisoner," resulting in a lively and suspense-filled ending.

The event concluded successfully with great enthusiasm and appreciation from both the judges and participants. It provided students with an enjoyable platform to showcase their teamwork, quick thinking, and coordination while maintaining the spirit of fun and learning.

Outcome of the session: The event “Cloaks and Chaos” received positive feedback from the participants, who expressed that they thoroughly enjoyed the games and activities. Even those eliminated in the initial rounds appreciated the experience and stated that the event was entertaining and engaging throughout. Overall, while the event was successful in terms of student participation and enthusiasm, it highlighted the need for better communication and coordination within the organizing committee for future events.
